LOOK SMART, FEEL PROUD

Introduction

School Colours has a long family history dating back to the nineteenth century when C.G. Southcott began manufacturing military uniforms in the east coast seaside town of Bridlington.

Having become one of the UK's leading manufacturers of school uniform garments, we continue in the 21st century, with our tradition of high quality and excellent service.

The use of the latest technology and machinery to produce high quality garments ensures that our pupils look smart and feel proud.

Tradition of Quality, Reliability and Innovation

Our focus is always on comfort, design, durability and sustainability – making sure that pupils representing their school look their best.

From the use of new dyestuffs bringing bespoke school colours to wool blazers in the 19th century to the introduction of the first washable school blazer in the 1960's, School Colours has always been a market leader and innovator.

The drive for innovation continued with the launch of the UK's first recycled polyester school blazer in 2008.

As the digital market has affected all of our lives from individual shopping habits to how we pay for goods, School Colours has once again been on the front foot. We provide schools with what they want in terms of the uniform distribution from bulk supply to their shops to online supply direct to parents. We have an increasing emphasis on School Colours Direct – our direct-to-parents online school shop.

It is vitally important that schools offer parents the best deal in terms of quality and cost and are seen to be doing so.

Started in the 1870's by Creswick George Southcott, run by his Great Grandson today

Bespoke Design Service

The production of individually designed school uniforms for each of our schools is a hallmark of the service offered by School Colours. We endeavour to reflect the aims, character and ethos of each school we partner with.

Pupils who look smart and stand out often feel better about themselves and the school community they represent.

We have a unique design tool on our website that allows schools to capture the imagination of those tasked with developing the uniform. CADS are also available to send to the school to show them how their ideas will look.

Each school's requirements are different and working with School Colours allows each school to offer a unique style at sensible prices. As can be seen in the following pages our style range is extensive and available in many fabric types and colours.

We offer:

A popular design tool on our website.

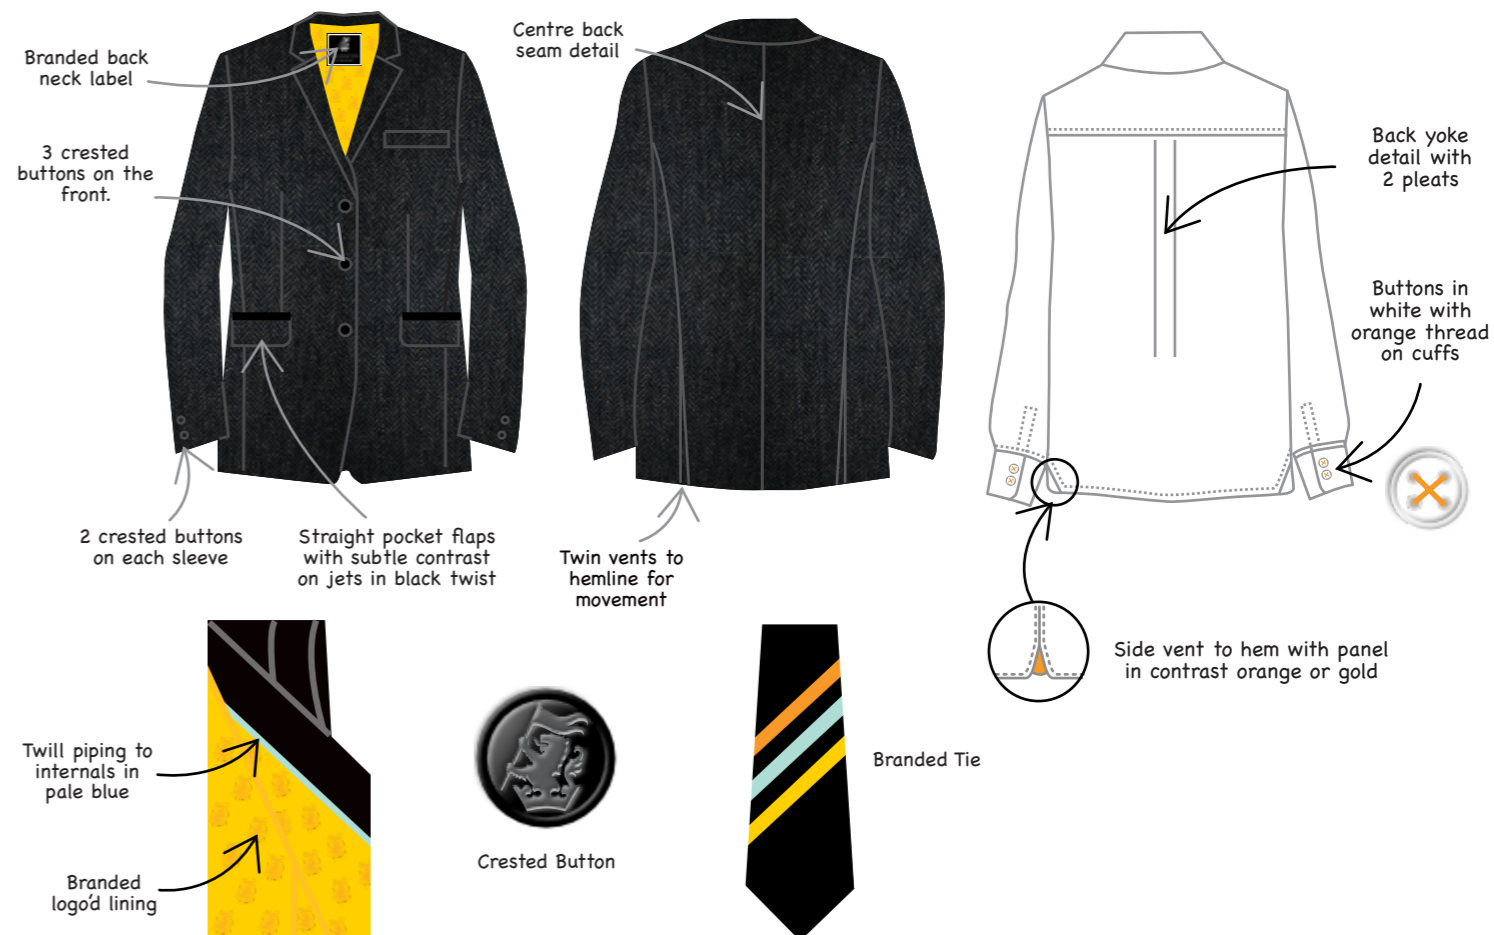

A free consultation with our experienced designers.

Unique, bespoke storyboards showing exactly what the uniform will look like.

An extensive fabric library that helps you choose the most suitable cloth in terms of colour, style, durability and washability.

We supply free preproduction samples.

Free quotations are available on all designs.

Ethical Sourcing

School Colours manufactures most of our own garments so we know where they are made, who makes them and what trim is used.

Where?

Uniforms are mostly made in Europe. Sportswear is made in South Asia.

Who?

Our European-based factories adhere to EU labour laws ensuring fair working conditions and wages. Similarly, our Asian factories are SEDEX audited and compliant.

We can confidently claim that children wear our garments, they do not sew them together.

What?

The key word here is sustainability. We are a market leader in recycled products and are developing strategies to further reduce single use plastics. We were the first to produce a blazer from recycled polyester in 2006. Most of our fabrics are made in the UK or in Europe. Trims are the highest quality available in the market and used extensively where appropriate to help durability and shape retention during wash & wear.

Ecosmart Uniforms

Bringing together all the above is our hugely popular Ecosmart range.

Our recycled polyester fabrics are woven to a heavy weight and durable specification.

The highly tailored patterns ensure that the wearer looks smart and that it feels comfortable to wear.

Schools can select from various options to ensure their uniform is customised to fit their school look.

Our Ecosmart range is constantly evolving and includes blazers, trousers and skirts.

Service and Delivery Options

School Colours has a wide range of effective service and delivery options available to assist you in the distribution of your school uniform. Each school decides how it wants its uniform to be made available and delivered to families.

Our flexible customer service approach increasingly reflects a direct-to-customer approach.

Having designed, manufactured, and supplied the school uniform, our aim then is to provide you with a range of flexible options from which you choose your best distribution method.

Here are just some of the examples currently used by schools.

School Colours Direct

The easiest and most effective method of delivery to families is via our online shop – School Colours Direct. Families order online and stock is dispatched directly to them. No further involvement is necessary on the part of the school. We own and warehouse the stock. Free sizing sets are provided and delivery options can be tailored to the schools' needs.

Complete School Shop

A full school shop run by the school with all the benefits of convenience for families. Stock is delivered to the school for onward sales. The school owns the stock but it can be delivered and invoiced at selected times through the season. The school sets their own prices and it can be an important revenue source for them.

Hybrid Online and School Shop

For schools that want an online service as well as keeping their own shop open. The stock is owned by School Colours but jointly shared by our School Colours Direct Service and the schools' own shop.

Serviced Shop for Schools

This is for schools who want a shop but who have limited space to store the stock. A small stock is kept in the school shop (or office) topped up by the main stock that is held in our warehouse. The school owns the stock and we have bespoke software to allow the school to track stock movements.

Remote Shop Model

This is great for those schools that want to offer the uniform online for themselves but have no space to hold the stock. Pupil packs are distributed from our warehouse to the school from stock held in our warehouse. Family orders can come from the school's own webshop in conjunction with their cashless provider. The school sets its own selling prices and it can be an important revenue source.

School Colours Direct

Summary of our online service

Parents order online at their convenience.

Parent clicks on a hyperlink on the schools' own uniform information page.

We pick and pack the uniform and send it out in a pupil pack.

Sizing sets are given FOC to the school for pupils to use.

Desktop, Tablet & Phone site optimisation.

Parents order & pay online (Visa, Mastercard, Paypal).

Garments are pupil packed with name on the bag or box.

Package sent FOC to school (if FOC School Delivery option chosen by the school) or home delivery.

Goods can be returned for a credit.

Most orders despatched within 24 hours and all orders within 3 working days – even in August.

What makes our online shop reliable and easy to use?

Free sizing sets are given to each school for fitting purposes. We find real garment sizing sets are more reliable to estimate the size needed than parents measuring their child – less returns.

Our garment manufacturing accuracy is best in class to ensure the uniform is consistent year-on-year – confidence in ordering.

Bespoke stock management software (Smartstock®) allows us to predict the amount of stock needed based on historical data – good availability of stock.

If any garments are temporarily out of stock the parent can register to receive an email alert when they come into stock.

Our garments come with labels so the parent can write the pupils name on; a laundry marker can be bought from the online shop.

Desktop, Mobile and Tablet site optimisation for multiple platform ordering.

Why our service is flexible to meet your needs

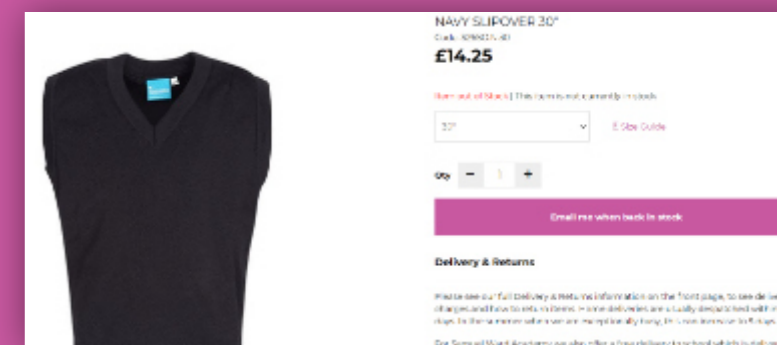

We work closely with the schools to ensure all pupils have their uniform needs met.

We can make special sizes for pupils that need them.

A hybrid service is available in combination with a schools' own shop.

Choice of free to school delivery and/or home.

Special delivery arrangements during school holidays to fit in with the schools' own needs.
